Part I: Overview of EDLE Graduate Studies

Vision, Mission, & Beliefs

Vision. We are committed to preparing individuals who will contribute to the creation of a humane and just society. To accomplish this, the TCU College of Education:

- (1) Engages students in ethical, responsible, and meaningful scholarship and practice;
- (2) Fosters community collaboration locally and globally;
- (3) Expects excellence in all college endeavors.

Mission. The mission statement of the Educational Leadership program is reflective of TCU's overall mission as well as the mission of the College of Education.

Texas Christian University's mission is "To educate individuals to think and act as ethical leaders and responsible citizens in the global community."

The TCU College of Education prepares exemplary learners for diverse educational settings and related fields who are reflective, ethical, innovative, and committed to all learners.

The mission of the TCU Educational Leadership programs is to develop teacher-scholar leaders who make a difference for the common good.

The TCU Educational Leadership programs are committed to the development of five overarching themes, and these themes permeate coursework throughout EDLE studies. We believe that engaging in the Educational Leadership programs at TCU will equip students in their professional settings to:

- (1) Enhance relationships within their organizations and between organizations and the broader community;
- (2) Create an organization with greater capacity and responsiveness;
- (3) Use data and evaluation to enhance the quality of people, programs, and learning within the organization;
- (4) Grow the human and social capital of the institution; and
- (5) Ensure the effectiveness and coherence of the instructional program of the institution.

Program History

Over the years the M.Ed. and Ed. D. programs have progressed through much iteration as program faculty strived to meet the needs of a diverse student population. Programs have served persons seeking principal or superintendent certification (in degreed and non-degreed programs), persons focused on leadership in independent, private, and parochial school contexts, persons focused on leadership in higher education, and even persons aiming to work in educational aspects of corporate, nonprofit, or athletics endeavors. All programs serve both full-time and part-time students.

While M.Ed. programs have been in place across the years, and have undergone several revisions to better align with evidence-based standards and with certification requirements, the first Ed. D. took the form of the joint MBA/Ed.D. and enrolled its first two students in 2000. Since that time, the program has continued to grow and remains one of very few MBA/Ed.D. programs in the nation.

In 2006, an Ed.D. in Educational Leadership (independent of the MBA) was approved, and the first admitted students began coursework shortly thereafter. Over the years that followed, program faculty noted that the program largely served two main groups: those persons with roots in EC-12 leadership and those pursuing leadership in higher education contexts. To ensure that all student needs were met, the Doctorate in Higher Education Leadership was instituted in 2012. These additions to the degree offerings coincided with an increase in program faculty and revisions to the Ed.D. in Educational Leadership.

Programs now include two certification-only programs, several M.Ed. offerings (certification-seeking, non-certification seeking, and higher education focused), and three doctoral offerings (MBA/Ed.D., Ed.D. in Educational Leadership, and the Ed.D. in Higher Education Leadership). As has been characteristic of the program throughout the years, students still work closely with an advisor to select a program of study that has fidelity to the core tenets of educational leadership while meeting the student's personal and professional goals.

As of the most current catalog, general program descriptions are as follows (more details can be found in sections specific to these programs in later sections of the handbook and in the Graduate Catalog via the TCU Registrar's website at <http://www.reg.tcu.edu/>):

- The M.Ed. in Educational Leadership is a 36 credit-hour non-thesis program that prepares individuals to serve in roles of educational leadership. The program includes a pathway to certification for those persons wanting to serve as elementary and secondary principals, supervisors and central office staff in public and private schools. The program also includes a pathway that is not inclusive of Texas administrator certification.
- The Ed.D. in Educational Leadership is a 60-hour degree aimed at enabling students to successfully engage in a range of professional activities, from working as a leading practitioner in the EC-12 educational context, to the corporate training or educational world, to leadership in athletics-related endeavors. A general program of study is outlined in the following section. Students are required to take a suitable number and variety of graduate courses and field-based experiences to prepare for the qualifying examination and the completion of a capstone project or dissertation. The Ed.D. encompasses a minimum of 60 hours of coursework, fieldwork and capstone or dissertation, though additional courses may be needed if prerequisites have not been met or if a student requires more than 12 credit hours to complete the capstone or dissertation.
- The Ed.D. in Higher Education Leadership is a 63-hour program combining a common core, inquiry courses, a cognate area, practical experience, and a capstone project. The HED is designed to prepare students for leadership roles in a variety of higher education institutional settings. The program will provide a professional degree to improve the practice of those engaged in administrative functions in higher education. The Ed.D. in Higher Education Leadership would be similar in construct to the existing Ed.D. programs, but would vary in some significant ways.

Program Administration

For questions about the College of Education Educational Leadership programs, contact Dr. Jan Lacina, Associate Dean for Graduate Studies in the College of Education, at (817) 257-6786.

Program Accreditation

Texas Christian University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award baccalaureate, masters, and doctoral degrees. The College of Education is also accredited by the Texas Education Agency.

Admissions Information

Students seeking admissions to any program in the TCU College of Education should pay close attention to the requirements outlined on the TCU College of Education Graduate Studies webpage (<http://www.coe.tcu.edu/graduate-students-overview.asp>). Application materials vary slightly from program to program, even within Educational Leadership, so careful attention to posted requirements is essential.

Students interested in TCU's Educational Leadership programs must complete the application process by November 1 (for those seeking initial enrollment in a spring semester) or February 15 (for those seeking initial enrollment in a summer or fall semester). NOTE:

The Principal Fellows Program at TCU aims to enroll a cohort of 8-12 M.Ed., certification-seeking students on an annual basis. Persons admitted to this selective program receive discounted tuition due to the generosity of program partners. Because of the competitive nature of this programmatic track, students applying for admission through the Principal Fellows cohort-based program must complete the materials, including statements of support from the student's district superintendent, by February 15, and are subject to further admissions requirements. For example, applicants who meet general admissions requirements and who are considered as potential cohort members by program faculty participate in a half-day Assessment Experience on the campus of TCU. Programmatic partners (leaders of corporations, nonprofits, and area school districts) work with College of Education faculty to assess applicants on a range of interpersonal, academic, and learning-oriented tasks to determine final offers of admission.

While TCU is always seeking new partners for this program, current and/or past partners have included:

- Gregory A. and Laura E. Bird Foundation
- Chase
- Rainwater Charitable Foundation
- The Morris Foundation
- Sid Richardson Foundation
- Dr. Steffen and Mrs. Betsy Palko
- Lockheed-Martin
- Fort Worth ISD
- Keller ISD
- Eagle Mountain-Saginaw ISD
- Crowley ISD
- Richardson ISD

Students interested in the Ed.D. in Educational Leadership or the Ed.D. in Higher Education Leadership who wish to first enroll in a summer or fall semester must complete all application requirements by February 15 of the year in which they wish to enroll. Students who wish to enroll beginning with a spring semester must complete all application requirements by November 1 of the preceding year. Students who plan to seek financial assistance or employment as a graduate assistant during the first semester of enrollment must use the February 15 deadline (and enroll for the first time in a summer or fall semester).

Students interested in the MBA/Ed.D. in Educational Leadership must apply to and be admitted to the Neeley School of Business at TCU prior to being considered for admission to the College of Education. These students should speak to program faculty and consult admissions requirements and deadlines for the Neeley School of Business (http://neeley.tcu.edu/Academics/MBA\_Programs.aspx)

Additional requirements for certification-seeking students. Students seeking admission into a program associated with certification (M.Ed. or Ed.D.) must also meet statutory requirements for teaching experience. Persons seeking to enroll in principal-certification programs must have completed at least one creditable year of full-time teaching by the time of application, and must be on track to have completed at least two years of creditable full-time teaching by the completion of the program. Persons seeking to enroll in a program leading to superintendent certification must hold a valid principal's certificate (or equivalent issued in another state) at the time of application to the program.

General Graduate School Policies and Procedures

Information specific to graduate studies at TCU may be located at <http://www.graduate.tcu.edu/>. At this site, students can explore graduate programs, obtain information about general financial aid, and link to admissions requirements. The graduate studies catalog is maintained on the website of the Registrar, at <http://www.reg.tcu.edu/>.

NOTE: Students should be aware that while every effort is made to keep this handbook up to date, in the event that there is a discrepancy between this handbook and the Graduate Catalog in effect when the student first enrolled, the guidelines and requirements as set forth in the applicable Graduate Catalog take precedence.

Part II: Programs of Study, Curricula, and Pathways to Completion

Non-degreed programs

The TCU College of Education recognizes that some students will seek certification as a principal or superintendent after completing other relevant studies. For these individuals, we offer professional certification programs. Upon successful completion of the required coursework, and upon completion of a successful practice exam in the appropriate area of certification, the TCU College of Education will recommend qualified individuals to the State of Texas for certification as a principal or superintendent.

Principal certificate. The professional certification program for aspiring principals is a 21-hour program (15 hours of coursework plus 6 hours of field-based practicum). As per Texas Administrative Code Title 19, Part 7, §241.20, to be eligible to receive the Principal Certificate, a candidate must:

1. Successfully complete the appropriate certification exam(s) (i.e., the TExES);
2. Hold, at a minimum, a master's degree from an accredited institution of higher education or an institution otherwise approved by an accrediting organization recognized by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB);
3. Hold a valid classroom teaching certificate;
4. Have two creditable years of teaching experience as a classroom teacher;
5. Successfully complete a principal preparation program that meets the standards outlined in the TAC and be recommended for certification by that program.

Additionally, TAC title 19, Part 7, §228.35(d)(3) requires all individuals seeking certification as a principal or superintendent to complete a supervised practicum of at least 160 clock-hours. For individuals seeking the Superintendent certificate, the candidate must demonstrate proficiency in the superintendent standards (TAC §241.15) as part of the field-based practicum.<sup>1</sup>

Superintendent certificate. The professional certification program for those individuals seeking the superintendent certificate is a 21-hour program (15 hours of coursework plus 6 hours of field-based practicum). As per Texas Administrative Code §242, to be eligible to receive the Superintendent Certificate, a candidate must:

1. Successfully complete the appropriate certification exam(s) (i.e., the TExES);
2. Successfully complete an approved superintendent educator preparation program that meets the standards outlined in the TAC and be recommended for certification by that program;
3. Hold, at a minimum, a master's degree from an accredited institution of higher education or an institution otherwise approved by an accrediting organization recognized by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB);
4. Hold a valid principal certificate or the equivalent issued by another state or country.

Additionally, TAC title 19, Part 7, §228.35(d)(3) requires all individuals seeking certification as a principal or superintendent to complete a supervised practicum of at least 160 clock-hours. For individuals seeking the Superintendent certificate, the candidate must demonstrate proficiency in the superintendent standards (TAC §242.15) as part of the field-based practicum.<sup>2</sup>

Upon admission to TCU and the College of Education, students work with an advisor to select appropriate coursework. The plan of study and a flowchart of typical program progression are outlined below.

Progression chart for students in non-degreed (cert-only) programs.

M.Ed. Programs

The M.Ed. with a major in Educational Leadership (certification track) prepares individuals to serve as elementary, middle school, and secondary principals as well as central office staff in public and private schools. The College of Education also provides a non-certification track for those who are not seeking EC-12 certification as a school leader, but who aspire to work in a variety of contexts such as nonprofit leadership, with an entity that is associated with education, or in a higher education leadership context.

Degree with certification. The professional certification program for aspiring principals is a 36-hour program (30 hours of coursework plus 6 hours of field-based practicum). Upon successful completion of the required coursework, and upon completion of a successful practice exam in the appropriate area of certification, the TCU College of Education will recommend qualified individuals to the State of Texas for certification.

The College of Education serves individuals who choose TCU for the degree and certification programs, and we also serve an annual cohort of Principal Fellows. The Principal Fellows program serves 10-14 students in cohort fashion; those students who meet the rigorous standards for admittance into the Principal Fellows cohort and whose districts have opted into the program receive discounted tuition through the generosity of corporate, nonprofit, and other partners. Fellows also spend year two of the program working in full-time, paid administrative intern positions within their home districts. Principal Fellows follow the same certification-oriented degree plan as other M.Ed.-seeking students, though some deadlines prior to and during the admissions process vary. These are noted in the sections on “Admissions”.

As per Texas Administrative Code Title 19, Part 7, §241.20, to be eligible to receive the Principal Certificate, a candidate must:

1. Successfully complete the appropriate certification exam(s) (i.e., the TExES);
2. Hold, at a minimum, a master's degree from an accredited institution of higher education or an institution otherwise approved by an accrediting organization recognized by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB);
3. Hold a valid classroom teaching certificate;
4. Have two creditable years of teaching experience as a classroom teacher;
5. Successfully complete a principal preparation program that meets the standards outlined in the TAC and be recommended for certification by that program.

Additionally, TAC title 19, Part 7, §228.35(d)(3) requires all individuals seeking certification as a principal to complete a supervised practicum of at least 160 clock-hours. A degree plan and a flowchart illustrating typical pathway to completion are included below.

Progression to completion for students in M.Ed. (Higher Education emphasis, non-certification).

M.Ed. Tier I Assessment

Purpose. To provide timely and constructive feedback to students pursuing the M.Ed. in Educational Leadership degree at TCU, program faculty engage with students in a midpoint (“Tier I”) assessment. These assessments are held twice per calendar year—once in the summer, and once in late fall. Dates are posted on the Educational Leadership page of the College of Education website and on the bulletin board outside the advising area on the third floor of Bailey/Palko.

Eligibility. Students are eligible to complete the Tier I assessment after completing 12-15 hours of required coursework; most if not all of these hours should include those courses identified as “Tier I” courses. Eligible students should complete the “Request for Tier I Assessment” form and turn it in to the College of Education Graduate Studies office at least 30 days prior to the scheduled assessment date.

Process and products. Students participating in the Tier I assessment are required to turn in two artifacts along with the “Request for Tier I Assessment” at least 30 days prior to the desired assessment date. Then, on the assessment date, the student completes the oral assessment, which takes the form of a public presentation. The artifacts and presentation are described below. Participants are reminded that the general purpose of these artifacts and presentation are to give the student the opportunity to demonstrate exceptional oral and written communication skills in a way that links reflective practice with coursework and professional standards.

- Artifact one consists of a written discussion of the student’s developing self-awareness of individual strengths and weaknesses, tied to the professional literature and coursework. The discussion should include reflection on specific assessments of the impact of their personal growth and development on their schools and their school leadership praxis (Suggested length of discussion is 500-750 words).
- Artifact two should be a piece of work from one of the Tier I courses completed by the student. This artifact should be a piece of work completed as a solo venture (no group project products). This artifact should demonstrate exceptional written communication skills. For certification-seeking students, the artifact should also evidence the student’s ability to link coursework, personal/professional goals, and the principal standards (see Appendix M). For non-certification or higher education-focused students, the work should evidence the ability to link coursework, personal/professional goals, and profession-specific standards or expectations identified in collaboration with the student's advisor. It is permissible for students to edit an assignment beyond what was considered "final" for the purposes of the course.

- The oral portion of the qualifying assessment will take place with a panel of professors (one of whom is the student's academic advisor). Within the context of the oral presentation, the student should describe personal/professional growth and achievement to this point in the program, noting links to professional literature, coursework, and standards where appropriate. The student should also discuss academic, professional, and personal goals for the future, and outline a plan for achieving these goals based on deep, extensive reflection. It would also be appropriate for the student to address his/her leadership platform.

This portion of the assessment is limited to 15 minutes, and may be accompanied by visuals; the oral presentation will be followed by a question and answer session. The overall rating, agreed upon by panel consensus, will be one of the following: outstanding, good, satisfactory, or unsatisfactory. Students will receive a written summary of feedback on the oral presentation as well on the written submissions, and this assessment of progress will be cc'd to the student's program file.

A student who does not successfully complete the qualifying assessment may remain enrolled in the program for the following term. At the conclusion of the following term, the student may re-take the qualifying assessment. If the student fails the qualifying assessment for a second time, he/she may not enroll for classes again until the assessment is completed successfully. In this event, students will not be allowed to re-take the assessment until the end of the following term, when the next general qualifying assessment is offered.

Ed.D. Programs

Texas Christian University provides three basic pathways to the Ed.D. Students focusing on a career in colleges and universities pursue the Doctorate in Higher Education Leadership. Students focusing on a career in EC-12 institutions pursue the Ed.D. in Educational Leadership with Principal or Superintendent Certification. Students pursuing careers in education-related nonprofits, businesses, or other entities may elect to pursue the Ed.D. in Educational Leadership (non-certification track). Some students aim to obtain appointments as education faculty at institutions of higher education; these students may work through the HED or EDLE Ed.D. programs, as appropriate to the intended field of expertise, but should also work with their advisors to identify opportunities for involvement with state, national, and international research and teaching organizations.

Also, TCU boasts one of the few MBA-Ed.D. programs in the country. Persons who apply to this program must first be admitted to the Neeley School of Business at TCU. The TCU College of Education will only review applicants already accepted through Neeley for this joint program. Students accepted to the MBA-Ed.D. program typically complete MBA requirements then complete Ed.D. (certification or non-certification, as is appropriate to career goals) coursework in the College of Education.

Principal certification in conjunction with Ed.D. Persons who are seeking initial principal certification in conjunction with the Ed.D. must have at least two years of creditable full-time teaching at an accredited school (EC-12) and should work with their advisors to ensure that the following courses or their equivalents are completed within or in addition to the EDLE Ed.D.:

- Students must complete the following four courses:
  - EDLE 60033 (Engaging Community and Culturally Responsive Practice)
  - EDLE 60053 (Instructional Leadership B: Supervision)
  - EDUC 60013 (Curriculum Theory)
  - EDAD 70013 (Legal and Social Environment of Education)
- Plus one of the following:
  - EDUC 60043 (Action Research)
  - EDUC 60823 (Educational Program Evaluation)
  - EDAD 70063 (Data-Informed Decision Making)
  - EDLE 60083 (Data Use for Educational Leaders)
- Certification-seeking students must also complete a two-semester, 160-clock hour campus-based practicum (EDLE 60093A and EDLE 60093B)

Only when these core courses and the practicum have been completed, and the appropriate TExES exam passed, will TCU consider recommending the applicant for the principal certificate.

Superintendent certification in conjunction with Ed.D. Persons who hold the Principal Certificate and those who are seeking superintendent certification in conjunction with the Ed.D. must work with their advisors to ensure that the following courses or their equivalents are completed within or in addition to the EDLE Ed.D. For persons seeking the Superintendent Certificate, these courses may not be substituted.

- EDAD 70043 Education Policy and Practice
- EDAD 70033 Ethical & Moral Dimensions of Leadership
- EDHE 70153 Organizational Behavior in Educational Contexts
- EDAD 70013 Legal & Social Environments of Education
- EDLE 70083 Issues & Trends in the Superintendency

Certification-seeking students must also complete a two-semester, 160-clock hour central-office based practicum (EDLE 60093A and EDLE 60093B)

Only when these core courses and the practicum have been completed, and the appropriate TExES exam passed, will TCU consider recommending the applicant for the superintendent certificate.

For each pathway to the Ed.D., a degree plan and a flowchart illustrating typical progression to completion is included below. All required forms and documents alluded to in charts or narrative descriptions of programs are accessible at <http://www.coe.tcu.edu/graduate-students-forms-and-documents.asp>

Progression to Completion: Ed.D., Educational Leadership (non-certification seeking students)

Ed.D., Educational Leadership (with Principal or Superintendent certification)

The degree plan for the Ed.D. in EDLE with certification is remarkably similar to the non-certification plan, with a few additional restrictions. For example, candidates seeking initial certification as a principal or certification as a superintendent must ensure that the courses leading to certification are included on the final degree plan, and fewer courses may be substituted on the plan leading to certification. Beyond course requirements, these students must also provide a copy of the Official Service Record to the TCU Certification Officer, in addition to successfully completing the program and passing the appropriate TEXES, in order to be considered for recommendation by TCU to SBEC

Progression to Completion: Doctorate in Higher Education Leadership

Process for Advancement to Candidacy

The comprehensive examination (or “qualifying exam”)<sup>9</sup> is an exercise through which the student demonstrates competence in the doctoral curriculum. The process for comprehensive exams is as follows:

Upon completing at least 42 hours of coursework, the student should select three professors (at least one from among Educational Leadership program faculty who will serve as the Dissertation Chair, and two others who will serve on the dissertation committee) to serve on the comprehensive exam panel (a fourth member must be added to the Dissertation Committee, but this is not required for composition of the comprehensive exam committee).

Upon selection of faculty, the student should file the “Request for Comprehensive Exam” form with the academic advisor, who forwards the request to: (1) the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies in the College of Education; and (2) all faculty serving on the comprehensive exam panel. Faculty serving on the comps panel will then meet with the student to discuss the student’s professional interests and potential topical areas for the capstone/dissertation. Within a week of that convening (or at a different time as mutually agreed upon in the student-panel discussion), the Chair will forward one question from each committee member to the student (for a total of three questions). The student will have 30 calendar days from receipt of these questions to return one document (containing responses to all three questions) to all comps panel members. For all comps, APA 6 formatting is expected, as are thoughtful and research-based responses. Specific directions will be provided by the panel chair.

Members of the comprehensive exam panel will have 30 days to read all student responses, and to assess the question each issued to the student. If desired, the committee may require the student sit for an oral examination to make a final determination on passing this portion of the candidacy process. A letter with the final decision (Pass, Pass with Revisions, Revise and Resubmit, or Fail) will be forwarded to the student and to the student’s graduate file. In the event a student does not pass the comprehensive exam, the faculty panel will meet with the student to outline a plan for remediation and progression toward passing status. The student may be required to submit new responses for 1, 2 or all 3 questions, or may be required to complete other tasks in preparation for subsequent attempts to pass the comprehensive exam.

Students must successfully pass the comprehensive exam prior to enrolling in EDAD 70073 (Capstone/Dissertation Seminar). In rare instances, a student may be allowed to complete the comprehensive exam concurrently with enrollment in EDAD 70073. However, a student may not be assigned a final grade in EDAD 70073 and may not enroll in additional dissertation or capstone hours until the comprehensive exam has been successfully completed. Students are therefore encouraged to plan accordingly so that comps are completed successfully in a timely manner as determined by collaboration with the committee Chair.

Once students have successfully completed the comprehensive exam, they will be considered admitted to candidacy and are then considered “doctoral candidates” rather than “doctoral students.”

Upon admission to candidacy, students work in concert with the capstone or dissertation chair to prepare the research or project proposal and subsequently defend the capstone or dissertation proposal to the full capstone/dissertation committee. This committee must include at least four members—at least two of these members must be from among educational leadership faculty. At least one member should be chosen from among College of Education faculty or from among the broader TCU faculty. A maximum of one member may be a community member or practitioner who holds a terminal degree and who has professional expertise within the discipline. If a student wishes to include such an external member (for example, a superintendent or someone working at another institution), they should consult with the dissertation/capstone chair on procedures to qualify such persons for participation on a capstone/dissertation committee. Students may have more than four members on a committee, though all must be qualified either through TCU faculty status or through the external vetting process.

Completion. Upon advancement to candidacy and successful defense of the proposal, capstone students enroll in EDAD 90770 and dissertation students enroll in EDUC 90980 (initial semester) and EDUC 90990 (continuing semesters). Once students enroll in the sequence of courses leading to completion (EDAD 70073-EDAD 90770 or EDAD 70073-EDUC 90980-EDUC 90990), they must maintain continuous enrollment during long semesters through the semester of graduation. Additionally, students who have successfully defended a proposal but who have not successfully completed the final defense must enroll in at least 1 hour of capstone or dissertation hours each summer through completion. In short, students must maintain continuous enrollment (including summers) from the time of proposal defense through graduation. Students who otherwise complete all required program hours and are still working on completing the capstone or dissertation may elect to enroll in 1 hour of EDAD 90770 or EDUC 90990 per long semester through completion, but continuous enrollment (unless interrupted by a granted furlough) is required.

During enrollment in these courses, all students engage in the work outlined in the approved capstone or dissertation proposal.

Upon completion of dissertation research, the student composes the final chapters of the dissertation, consults with the committee chair regarding initial edits, and schedules a final defense. Students are strongly encouraged to consult with the TCU Writing Center (<http://www.wrt.tcu.edu>) and/or a professional editor throughout the writing process. At the time of the defense, the student conducts a public presentation of the study and findings and answers questions from the committee. The committee will consult to determine whether the dissertation: 1) meets passing requirements with no further edits; 2) meets passing requirements with minor edits; 3) does not meet passing requirements (necessitating further edits and a subsequent re-presentation of the work to the committee).

Upon completion of the capstone project as approved by the student's committee, the student composes the remainder of the project and schedules a final defense and presentation. Students are strongly encouraged to consult with the TCU Writing Center (<http://www.wrt.tcu.edu>) and/or a professional editor throughout the writing process. The committee will consult to determine whether the capstone: 1) meets passing requirements with no further edits; 2) meets passing requirement with minor edits; 3) does not meet passing requirements (necessitating further edits and a subsequent representation of the work to the committee).

Capstone Project or Dissertation?

As the Ed.D. offers options for Capstone Projects or Dissertations, students should work with their respective chairs and advisors to determine which is most appropriate given personal, professional, and career goals. Both are rigorous projects that require intense effort, time and dedication, though the general shape and scope may differ. Both require doctoral candidates to demonstrate skills related to research (primary and secondary), critical thinking, problem-solving, written communication, and oral presentation.

A dissertation is original research that is typically broader in scope and makes an original contribution to the field of study as it addresses a research gap in a given area. Dissertations are grounded in theory (or develop theory). Outputs of the dissertation are typically presentations and articles in peer-reviewed as well as practitioner-friendly journals.

A capstone is an applied research project, but may also diverge from the traditional written, five-chapter model used for many dissertations. A capstone may build on existing research as a student develops a solution or plan of action responsive to a local problem. Capstone projects function as knowledge and practice portfolios, and may take a variety of formats, such as (but not limited to):

- A written evaluation of a program, or a needs evaluation relative to a recognized problem or issue;
- A series of peer-reviewed or practitioner-oriented journal articles on a noted topic;
- A portfolio of published articles and high-level professional (i.e., state, national or international) professional presentations.

The capstone will be completed with a final, written report that provides an overview of the scholar's background and growth throughout the project as well as the underlying theory and evidence that supports the final output. The student completing a capstone works in concert with the doctoral capstone committee to agree upon the shape and scope of the final product(s).

Part III: General Programmatic Policies & Procedures

Academic Performance and Professionalism Interventions

Students must maintain acceptable academic performance (a minimum 3.0 GPA in graduate coursework completed at TCU) once admitted to any educational leadership graduate program, and must maintain high professional standards, in order to advance in the program and to remain candidates for program completion.

Because most of our students will eventually hold positions of authority and be responsible for the safety and well-being of many people, including children, the faculty and staff of the Educational Leadership program are committed to identifying and intervening to assist students who demonstrate difficulties maintaining expected norms in their academic progress or in terms of professionalism. Any faculty member in the College of Education who has a concern about a candidate's performance and/or professionalism may initiate the Academic performance and Professionalism Warning (APPW) process:

1. The faculty members completes the APPW form describing the concerns and indicating potential strategies and solutions to resolve the problem(s).
2. A conference between the student and two faculty members is required to complete the APPW form. During the conference, the parties discuss the student's understanding of the concerns and the course of action required to remediate the problem(s). The APPW contract is signed by the student and faculty. If the student fails to respond or attend a conference, faculty will complete the form and notify the student via certified mail.
3. The completed form is submitted to the associate dean, the student, and the Office of Campus Life.

4. Any student receiving three notices through this process may be considered for dismissal from the College of Education. Except in an unusually severe or critical situation, no one notice will result in dismissal from the college of program.
5. These notices do not become part of a student's permanent academic record held in the registrar's office.

Advising

Upon acceptance to any TCU EDLE program, each student is assigned an academic advisor. Students should consult with the advisor each semester to plan the course schedule, and to update the plan of study whenever substitution courses are added to the plan. Any transfer coursework from other institutions should be submitted for approval within the first full semester of the student's enrollment. Further, the academic advisor may recommend approval to the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies of up to 6 hours of transfer graduate work (that has not already counted toward a degree); however, any requested application of transfer work beyond six hours must be submitted to the academic advisor and subsequently considered by the full educational leadership program faculty; the full program faculty will issue a recommendation to the Associate Dean as to whether to accept transfer work beyond six hours. In no circumstances will work completed at other institutions prior to the beginning of graduate work at TCU be accepted in excess of nine hours.

Background Checks

It is the student's responsibility to maintain an up-to-date (i.e., within the last year) background check on file with the graduate studies office in the CoE. Background checks are performed via Fort Worth ISD's procedures, and may take up to 10 business days to process, so students are encouraged to complete this process by the end of August each year. Information, required forms, and guidance on completing the required background check can be found at <http://tinyurl.com/mwm72o7>. This requirement applies to all students, including those who may already have a background check on file because they are employed by a school district.

Child Abuse Reporting

Sometimes, our students are engaged in field experiences that place them in close proximity to children and students. Often, TCU EDLE students are working as classroom teachers, assistant principals, principals, district leaders, or in other areas that require the person to hold a valid Texas educator's certificate.

Texas Family Code §261.101 states that a person having cause to believe that a child's physical or mental health or welfare has been adversely affected by abuse or neglect by any person shall immediately make a report. Further, this suspicion of abuse or neglect must be reported within 48 hours (or less if determined by local school board policy), by the person(s) who observed the suspected abuse and neglect. School personnel may not rely on another person or administrator within the school district to report suspected child abuse or neglect for them.

From the Texas Education Agency website:

What must I do if I suspect abuse or neglect of a child?
If a child is in immediate danger, call 911 or your local police first.
Then call the Texas Abuse Hotline to make a report.
The Texas Abuse Hotline is open 24/7/365.
1-800-252-5400

www.txabusehotline.org

(Report via the online reporting system for non-urgent situations only. A non-urgent situation means that intervention is not needed within 24 hours.)

Composition of Doctoral Committees

Each doctoral student will complete a capstone project or dissertation. Part of this work includes choosing a chair from among Educational Leadership program faculty and working with the chair to select the remaining members of the doctoral committee. In many instances, this will be done prior to the comprehensive exam, so that persons involved with the comprehensive exam process can be involved with both aspects of the student's progress. The doctoral committee must include at least four members—at least two of these members must be from among educational leadership faculty. At least one member should be chosen from among College of Education faculty or from among the broader TCU faculty. A maximum of one member may be a community member or practitioner who holds a terminal degree and who has professional expertise within the discipline. If a student wishes to include such an external member (for example, a superintendent or someone working at another institution), they should consult with the dissertation/capstone chair on procedures to qualify such persons for participation on a capstone/dissertation committee. Students may have more than four members on a committee, though all must be qualified either through TCU faculty status or through the external vetting process

Continuous Enrollment and Requests for Furloughs

Because graduate programs expect that students will proceed toward completion within 5-7 years of enrollment, consistent enrollment in coursework is expected of all students. However, we recognize that oftentimes our students have commitments or life events that require them to take a semester off. If a student has not yet begun the capstone/dissertation process (marked by the EDAD 70073 course and subsequent proposal), then students must miss no more than one long semester without requesting an official furlough from the program. Once a student has begun the capstone/dissertation process, the student must request a furlough if not enrolling in at least one hour of capstone/dissertation in each semester (including summers) through the semester of the defense and completion. To request a furlough, students should complete the "Request for Furlough" form and meet with an advisor. The program committee may require the student meet with the program committee or a selection of program faculty to create a plan for re-entry into the program, and to set benchmarks and timelines that help ensure program completion. If a student simply fails to enroll for more than one long semester without completing the request for furlough process, the program faculty may require the student to re-apply for admission, and may require the student to complete the most recent plan of study (as opposed to the plan in effect with the student was first admitted).

Field Experiences

Specific guidelines and expectations for practica and field experiences are set forth in syllabi and field guides specific to those courses. For more information, contact the instructor of record for the course in question. See also "State required practicum experiences" in this section.

Forms & Documents

While this handbook contains several important forms and documents in the Appendices, graduate students should also be familiar with the many documents and forms posted at <http://www.coe.tcu.edu/graduate-students-forms-and-documents.asp>. Postings at this site include important forms such as the Transfer Credit Request, the Intent to Graduate, the Graduation Checklist, and the Graduate Student Travel Application, among others.

Grading and Incomplete Grades

Students taking internship, practicum, and capstone/dissertation hours should take care to register for the appropriate number of hours for these courses; the TCU registration system permits students to select from 1-6 hours, and will default to “1” in many cases if not altered by the student at the time of registration.

An “I” grade is recorded when the student and instructor have determined that the work required for a course cannot be completed within the term of enrollment due to circumstances beyond the control of the student. The “I” grade must be removed within the first 60 days of the semester immediately following or it is automatically changed to an “F”; it is the student’s responsibility to complete all work required to effect the changing of the “I” grade and for picking up the required permit from the Registrar’s office and delivering it to the professor of record for the course within those 60 days to clear the Incomplete. This time limitation does not apply to capstone or dissertation hours.

Institutional Review Board (IRB)

Students conducting research (including research for a Capstone project or a Dissertation) must adhere to the requirements set forth by the Institutional Review Board. It is the student’s responsibility to become familiar with the policies, procedures, and required forms pertinent to IRB processes. Information about the processes and meeting dates for review boards may be found at www.research.tcu.edu under “Compliance” and “IRB” tabs. Students conducting research (or who act as research assistants) must also complete the National Institutes of Health (NIH) Training for Human Subjects Researchers, available at <http://phrp.nihtraining.com/users/login.php>

Liability Insurance

Most students in EDLE programs, and all students seeking certification, will at some point participate in field experiences that require students to conduct sheltered practice on a school campus. In certain circumstances, professional educators (and practicum students) may be liable for actions leading to the injury to a child. While these instances are somewhat rare, we do recommend that TCU educational leadership students obtain liability insurance. Many professional organizations, such as the Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE), United Educators Association (UEA), the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA-NEA) and the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) include liability insurance for members. All students are encouraged to research the options that exist and to take advantage of the legal benefits that accompany membership.

Licensure and Certification Procedures

To obtain certification as a principal or superintendent in the state of Texas, students must successfully complete all degree requirements (or course and field experience requirements on non-degreed plans of study). They must also be able to submit evidence of at least two years of full-time creditable teaching at an accredited school (generally, the Teacher Service Record), and must meet the passing standard on the Texas Examinations of Educator Standards, or TExES. Until all of these items are complete, TCU cannot submit a final recommendation for issuance of the certificate to the State Board for Educator Certification (SBEC).

Students who are ready to take the TExES exam must request a barcode release from the College of Education Certification Officer (Diana Woolsey). This barcode will only be released after the student has first demonstrated likely proficiency on the TExES; this is done by meeting the passing standard on a practice TExES exam. Practice exams are scheduled at least three times each calendar year, and dates for practice exams are posted on the College of Education programmatic webpage at <http://www.coe.tcu.edu/graduate-students-masters-in-leadership.asp>.

Upon passing the TExES, students should contact Diana Woolsey (817) 257-7202 to ensure that all required documentation has been submitted and to verify that no further information is needed for issuance of the final recommendation for certification to SBEC.

Media and Social Networking Presence

We encourage EDLE students to engage with technology in constructive ways, and to create and engage in professional learning networks (PLNs) via social media and other forms of technology. For in-class use, students should abide by the policies set forth in the syllabus for each course. For out-of-class use, students should consult any policies established by employers, school districts, and the Texas Educators' Code of Ethics.

Ongoing Program Assessment, e-surveys

As part of programmatic continuous improvement efforts, the Educational Leadership programs conduct annual e-surveys and periodic focus groups and interviews as part of ongoing program evaluation. Current student emails (@tcu.edu accounts) are used for current students, and when students complete the intent to graduate they will be asked to submit a non-TCU-affiliated email for use in this annual data collection. We encourage participation as this helps us make positive programmatic decisions. More information about the assessments, such as how data are used and to what degree responses are anonymous or confidential, are included on the initial screen of the survey each year.

Performance Benchmarks

The College of Education monitors each student's progress to ensure that the student is well-prepared as an educational leader, to assist the student in achieving his or her professional and personal goals, and to ensure confidence in recommending candidates for certification. While benchmarks vary slightly by program, major programmatic checkpoints include:

- Benchmark 1: Admissions. The role of the admissions committee (made up of the whole of the educational leadership program faculty) is to review each applicant to the CoE graduate programs in educational leadership. Each admitted candidate not only has the technical qualifications to excel in educational leadership (EC-12 or higher education) but is also perceived to have the requisite interpersonal skills to succeed in the field. As always, the committee takes program fit into consideration when making final decisions.
- Benchmark 2: Advising & Coaching (twice per year). Each long semester, the student will dialogue with his or her advisor to discuss prior coursework and level of success, strengths and potential areas for improvement, and next steps toward successful program completion. Notes on these meetings may be kept by the student and advisor.

- Benchmark 3: Midpoint Assessment (M.Ed. only). Each graduate program in the EDLE strand has intermediary assessments of some type, aimed at providing rich feedback to the student and allowing the student to demonstrate learning to that point of the program. For M.Ed. students, this is the “Tier I Assessment” in which the student turns in written artifacts and gives a public presentation specific to identified learning objectives. This process results in written feedback—discussed and shared with the student—that outlines strengths and any areas in need of improvement.
- Benchmark 4 (Ed.D. only): Comprehensive Exams. For Ed.D. students, this benchmark takes the form of the comprehensive exams, in which student-selected members of the capstone/dissertation committee pose questions to the student that require the linkage of research, practice, and professional goals. In each case, multiple faculty members provide the student with feedback and, if needed, remedial opportunities to enhance chances of eventual program success.
- Benchmark 5: Completion of Program Requirements. For M.Ed. students (and Ed.D. students seeking initial certification), successful completion of campus-based or central-office based field experiences, plus the successful completion of the practice and actual TExES exams, offers another opportunity for feedback and needed remediation.

For Ed.D. students, the benchmark process continues into Candidacy, wherein students defend a research or project proposal to a committee of faculty and then work closely with faculty to project completion and defense. Throughout all these processes, faculty have the opportunity to coach students and gain insight into the potential effectiveness of the student as a candidate for certification as a principal or superintendent (for certification-seeking students) or as a potential leader/scholar in the field of higher education. This process culminates in the defense of the work to the capstone/dissertation committee.

Professional Organizations

We encourage all graduate students to explore membership and/or participation in leading professional organizations. Many of these organizations have graduate-student level memberships available at discounted rates. In addition to membership, we encourage students to work toward publication in association newsletters and journals and toward presentation of work at conferences. A partial listing of some of these organizations includes:

EC-12	Higher Education
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Texas Association of School Administrators (TASA)</li> <li>• American Association of School Administrators (AASA)</li> <li>• Texas Association of Secondary School Principals (TASSP)</li> <li>• National Association of Secondary School Principals (NAASP)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• NASPA – National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.</li> <li>• ACPA – American College Personnel Association</li> <li>• AAC&amp;U - Association of American Colleges and Universities</li> <li>• AAHE - American Association of Higher Education</li> </ul>

State-required practicum experiences (Principal & Superintendent)

While some aspects of TCU certification programs are unique to TCU, we also must align with state requirements pertaining to our processes and content; the field-based practicum experience for those seeking principal or superintendent certification is just such an area. The state of Texas currently requires a campus-based (for principals) or district central office based (for superintendents) experience of no fewer than 160 clock hours, and these experiences must be under the supervision of a site supervisor who holds the certificate being aspired to by the student as well as under the guidance of a university supervisor. Because the program team believes it is critical for students to experience the ebb and flow of educational leadership throughout a school calendar, we strongly recommend that students pursuing the principal or superintendent certificate enroll in the practicum over two semesters (Fall-Spring). This reduces the practicum to 80 hours per semester and makes the practicum do-able in a way that permits ample reflection and in-depth exploration of leadership. However, we recognize that on rare occasions a student may need to complete a practicum in one semester. Therefore, under extenuating circumstances, students may petition the EDLE program faculty to permit completion of the 160-hour practicum within a single semester. It should be noted that this does not reduce the total number of hours required for any degree; if a M.Ed. student takes one semester of practicum, the remaining three hours must be filled with additional coursework. If an Ed.D. student takes one semester of practicum, the same requirements hold.

Texas Educators’ Code of Ethics

All persons who hold a certificate issued SBEC or who are involved with a program of study leading to certification as an educator in Texas should familiarize themselves thoroughly with the Texas Educators’ Code of Ethics. A copy of the Code of Ethics is included in Appendix C.

Transfer Credit

Transfer credit requests must be completed at the time of admission and within the first semester of enrollment. Six hours of transfer credit is typical; on rare occasions, program faculty may recommend to the Associate Dean that nine transfer hours be accepted. The appropriate forms with required materials (e.g., evidence of successful completion and course descriptions and/or syllabi) must be completed and are the responsibility of the graduate student.

Travel Grants and Funding

Sometimes students co-author papers with one another or with faculty members for presentation at statewide, national, or international conferences. Some funds are typically available to help defray the costs associated with travel to such events. Students considering such travel should file a request for travel assistance with the office of the Associate Provost of Academic Affairs (Sadler 208) and then with the office of the Associate Dean for Graduate Studies in the College of Education. Pre-planning and early application for funds is essential, as many students throughout the College and University apply for funding assistance each year. Additionally, many organizations, such as the American Educational Research Association (AERA) and the University Council for Educational Administration (UCEA) have competitive funding grants earmarked for graduate students. Again, timely planning and requests are critical to obtaining such funding.

Safety Guidelines

Suggestions for Your Safety Off-Campus...

Walking to and from your car...

- Have entry/ignition keys in hand before starting for your car so you're not trying to find them while you walk to the car or standing at the car door.
- Stay alert when crossing the parking lot and watch for suspicious persons.
- If you have a cell phone, have it within easy reach
- Even if your car was locked when you left it, check the interior prior to entry for uninvited guests.
- If a stranger approaches you, continue walking to your car, politely decline requests for money or information. Don't stop walking toward your car.
- If asked for help, offer to call the police or suggest they return to the business. DO NOT offer assistance yourself or allow a stranger to use your cell phone.
- If a situation seems suspicious, look for someone to help you or dial 9-1-1.

While driving...

- Follow established roadways. Use familiar streets, not back roads or "shortcuts".
- Make sure all doors are locked while driving.
- Put purses and/or other valuables out of sight, if possible, or cover item(s) with a towel.
- Stay alert at stop signs and traffic lights. If a stranger approaches your car at a traffic light, drive away.
- Don't leave your car's engine running while you're out of or away from the car.
- If your car breaks down or you have a flat, call for assistance from within your (locked) car and remain inside until help arrives.
- Don't travel to remote areas by yourself.
- Be sure you have plenty of gas before you start a trip.
- Plan your route. Get driving directions from the Internet if necessary.

If you should become involved in an accident:

- At night, drive (if possible) to a lighted area.
- If the occupants of the other car make you uncomfortable, call the police from within your (locked) car and remain inside until the police arrive.
- Jot down the description and license number of the other car while you wait for the police.

Attach an updated degree plan that documents all coursework through the date of this furlough request.

In the space below (attach pages if needed), please explain the reasons behind the current request for furlough, your anticipated re-start date, and any other information pertinent to this request.

I understand that if my furlough is granted, I will be required to meet with an advisory committee to establish a program re-entry plan and target dates for re-entry. If I do not complete this step of the process, the furlough will be considered invalid. I understand that opting not to enroll for two consecutive long semesters without a valid, granted furlough request is grounds for administrative removal from the program, in which case I would be required to reapply to the program and obtain readmission prior to progressing toward program completion.
